Hancock to lose Martin Smith under redistricting proposal

By BRENN MACEY
Final approval of a proposal to redistrict Mississippi's Senate and House would mean Hancock County will be split for the first time in its history and represented by two state representatives and two senators.

Voters in 18 of 24 precincts in Hancock County would lose Martin Smith as their state senator.

Smith is currently represents both Hancock County and Pearl River County in their entirety.

The 18 Hancock precincts are proposed to be shifted into a district also comprised of several western precincts in Harrison County. The Harrison County precincts are represented by Senator George Smith, J.P. Comptre, currently the representative for all of Hancock County.

Under the new redistricting proposal, Martin Smith's district would include Pearl River County, Stone County and only the Hancock precincts of Cataboula, Crane Creek, Flat Top, Lee Town, and the NSTL Test Site.

The NSTL test site precinct shows a population of 699 people according to the 1980 census. But Martin Smith attributed that figure to a mistake in the census figures. No people should be listed in that area.

The 18 southern Hancock County precincts now in Martin Smith's district would be shifted into a district also comprised of 12 precincts in western Harrison County.

The 12 Harrison County precincts show 15,761 registered voters as opposed to 11,977 registered voters in Hancock County's 18 southern precincts.

Martin Smith noted the plan at this stage is only a proposal.

The committee plans to meet again before making final recommendations to the full legislature in January.

If the legislature approves those changes, Comptre would lose the northern Hancock County precincts of Crane Creek, Flat Top, Lee Town and Standard.

In reference to the senate district, Martin Smith said, "I would very much prefer to keep the district the way it is."

"I feel I have some very close friends the way it is structured and I have a good close working relationship in the county. I understand the county's problems and I think I could serve the best interests of the people if I was allowed to continue my representation there (in Hancock County)," Smith said.

Comptre stated, "I hate to have to lose them (the four northern precincts) but if redistricting had to be done, it's the price you pay for growing."

He noted the northern Hancock precincts are competitive in Clayville.

Circuit Court jury rules judge innocent

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
A Hancock County Circuit Court Jury late Tuesday afternoon ruled Lloyd Anderson, District Three justice court judge, not guilty of a charge alleging he converted $155 of county funds for his own use.

Anderson was indicted on the charge by a recent County Grand Jury. He was charged for retaining some of the funds collected from traffic citation fines.

The Circuit Court Jury decided the verdict after deliberating only about 10 minutes.

The entire trial lasted about two days at the County Courthouse in Bay St. Louis, with the State of Mississippi, represented by District Attorney Albert Negalase and Assistant District Attorney Richard Smith, presenting numerous witnesses who testified to the charges.

Anderson's district at the time period in question.

The state also presented Cecil Jones of Pass Christian, a State Audit Department investigator who reported finding time report irregularities in Anderson's collection reports to the county, ranging from $2 to $50.

But later testimony by Anderson, his wife Merleth and his sister Linda Davis indicated the errors were due to Anderson's district at the time period in question.

Anderson revealed that during the time period in question, he handled some $40,000 collected from 200 cases.

Davis said she assisted Merleth Anderson in keeping court records during that time when she was suffering kidney problems and breast surgery to remove a tumor.

Joseph Benvenuto, an attorney and Bay St. Louis city judge, represented Anderson.

Mishaps kill four in Hancock County

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Separate accidents in Hancock County have claimed the lives of four men this week.

Carl Hancock, 49, of Bay St. Louis, died Wednesday afternoon in a house fire. Hancock was in the house when a fire broke out in the living room. He was found by neighbors and taken to the hospital, but died shortly after arriving.

The coroner said Joseph Wolf, 61, was cleaning pine straw from the roof of his home when he fell from the roof and struck a patio behind the home. Wolf's body was found in the yard.

Bandet stated, based on all eyewitness accounts by Glenda Mire of Gulfport, La., the home owner's mother the man apparently slipped on the pine straw, lost his balance and received a "bad concussion" in the fall which was reported as about 11:45 a.m. The coroner said Wolf fell approximately 10 feet.

Opt. Reginald Hayward of Bay St. Louis died Wednesday afternoon in a house fire. Hayward was in the house when a fire broke out in the living room. He was found by neighbors and taken to the hospital, but died shortly after arriving.

Wednesday explained he was first to arrive just minutes after the accident was reported and a lack of vital signs indicated Wolf was dead. Bandet said such an injury would result in death instantly or in a few minutes.

Bandet noted Wolf was an employee of the Gulfport, La., based contractor, and had almost completed cleaning the house roof of the home.

Bandet said Wolf's body was transported to J.T. Hall Funeral Home in Gulfport, where funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Also responding to the accident were Bandet, both Richard Gies and Jr. of the Diamondhead Rescue Unit, Nathan Hoda of the County Sheriff's Department, Delbert Roberts of the Bay St. Louis Police, and both of Diamondhead and Bay St. Louis police, both of the medical units.

At about 6:30 p.m. the same day a

Bay St. Louis man was killed on Hwy. 90 near Jordan River Shore.

Patrolman Curtis Newman of the Mississippi Highway Patrol reported at the accident scene that Robert E. Holland, 43, of 21 Sheldor Drive was killed when an automobile struck him while he was riding his bicycle on the highway.

Newman said the automobile, driven by Brad W. Lee of Kilm, was traveling north on the highway when it struck Holland. Holland was traveling in the same direction in the northbound lane just south of a State Highway Department maintenance yard.

Bandet said Holland apparently died instantly from the impact, which threw him and his bicycle about 50 feet from the northbound lane near the maintenance yard to the shoulder of the southbound lane.

Bandet reported Holland was thrown after striking the car's windshield.

Lott introduces 'Radioactive Repository Restriction Act'

U.S. Sen. Lott introduced legislation to restrict the siting of radioactive waste repositories in areas with low density population and sensitive resources can be strictly controlled.

Lott recognizes that the federal government possesses the scientific, technical and financial resources to manage the nation's radioactive waste.

The bill would require the federal government to conduct a comprehensive study of the nation's radioactive waste resources and to develop a plan for the safe and secure management of such waste.

The bill would also require the federal government to establish a system of monitoring and control over the siting of radioactive waste repositories.

Waveland views library expansion

By BRENT MACEY
Members of the Mississippi Library Commission and the Hancock County Library Board of Trustees met with the Waveland Aldermen recently to discuss funding an expansion of the Waveland Library.

The commission has agreed to expend a maximum of $75,000 in 30-50 matching funds for the project. They questioned the aldermen about how much of that money could be matched by Waveland.

Simmons Roberts, building consultant for the commission, informed board members that Waveland would have to sign a letter of intent by Oct. 23.

Roberts said the letter would have to indicate how much money Waveland intends to spend on the project.

Mayor Long estimated the city could obtain some $35,000 through a one mill tax extended over five years.

"And I think we can come up with another $5,000 some place," Simmons said. "I think we can come up with another $5,000 some place."

She said the Waveland library is some 1,700 feet long and suggested the library be expanded an additional 3,000 feet. She also recommended some interior walls be knocked out to provide a larger meeting room.

Long agreed an expansion of that size "would be nice," but questioned if the city could afford the amount necessary.

He asked if the Hancock County Board of Supervisors could pass a one mill tax for the library and also stated he thought the American Legion might contribute to the library addition.

Tonging season opens today

The Mississippi Wildlife Conservation Commission has set Thursday, Oct. 15 as opening day for tonging on the Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Pass Christian oyster reefs.

A catch limit of six barrels per boat per day was set at a commission meeting in Jackson Tuesday.

The season will open at sunrise Thursday with no closing date set at this time.

Also open to tonging next week will be the Bangs Lake and Bayou Cumber reefs.

Oyster tonging will begin Nov. 1 at the White House reef in Biloxi, with the same limit in effect.

The dredging season will open Nov. 15 and run through Dec. 31 at the Pass Christian and Telegraph reefs, with a 10-barrel per boat daily limit. The commission set Jan. 10 as the opening day for dredging at the Henderson Point reef, where the 10-barrel limit will also apply. Dredging there will end

The season dates were established by the commission at the recommendation of Dr. Richard Leard, Bureau of Marine Resources director.

In addition, the commission agreed to permit Marine Resources personnel to begin setting tax accounts with oystermen on a monthly basis, rather than the more frequent collections now required.

According to Leard, this will lower the cost of collecting oyster taxes, which he said now sometimes tax receipts themselves by $10.

On a related matter, Leard told the commission that the state attorney general's office had informed him that the bureau's idea of enforcing the aid of fishermen in enforcing conservation laws could not be put into effect legally.

They say that neither the commission nor the bureau would have the legal authority to depose private citizens, Leard said.

In other action, the commission approved a dredging permit for Noel J. Sarmetta's marina project at the Buena Vista Hotel Motel in Biloxi, where his Ship Island excursion boat now docks.

The 32-slip facility will cover 5.5 acres of waterfront and will be available for use by the general public.

The commission had given Sarmetta the go-ahead to develop plans for the marina at its July meeting.

Commissioners ratified a decision they made by phone last month to revoke the live bait license of Tom Lawler, owner of Marsh Island Marina in Ocean Springs, for six months.

A marina employee had been discovered using an oversized net to catch live bait for sale at the marina.

The action prompted declarations of sympathy by Commissioner Luther C. (Billy) Colloff of Biloxi and others for live bait dealers who are punished for the actions of those persons they hire to catch their bait.

The commission, however, unanimously reaffirmed its position that fishing camp owners, under state law, are responsible for the actions of their employees.

"It seems unfair, but what other option do we have?" Dr. Edmund Kelsen of Oxford, a commission member, said of the license revocation.

The commission has suspended several live bait dealers' licenses in recent months for law violations by their employees. In each case, the owners of the fishing camps said it was impossible for them to monitor the actions of the men they hire to catch bait.

Leard told commissioners the bureau probably will ask the 1982 Legislature to pass a law separating the dealers' license from boat licenses, so that dealers will not have to shut down their businesses entirely when their employees violate the law.

GCRL oyster reef surveys encouraging

The Gulf Coast Research Laboratory fisheries management section recently surveyed six oyster reefs in Mississippi Sound and found a "good" summer and early fall set of young oysters. In addition, small percentages of market size and greater percentages of sub-market size oysters were noted on all the reefs.

"If growth rates continue as they are now until water temperatures drop in early winter, more market or legal size oysters will be found on the reefs and a fair oyster season will be possible," stated William Demoran, section head.

Oyster pests and predators do not appear to be a problem at this time in any of the reef areas, despite the fact that salinities have remained high during the past year.

The natural reef areas examined, all located in western Mississippi Sound, are Pass Christian Tonging, Henderson Point, Pass Maritime, and Telegraph reefs. All four were killed off during spring floods which occurred in 1978 and 1980, Demoran pointed out; therefore, there has been no oyster production since that time in Mississippi.

Demoran and John Cirino, who examine the oyster resources regularly, believe that the reefs in western Mississippi Sound were recolonized by oysters that spawned in the Louisiana marshes located 12 miles to the south.

Two new reefs are being developed by the Bureau of Marine Resources, one located about 1 mile southwest of the Biloxi lighthouse and the other about 1/2 mile southwest of Long Beach harbor. Both were planted with clam shells in June of 1980.

The recent examination of the newly constructed reefs found small percentages of legal size oysters, averaging 17 percent on the Long Beach reef.

At this point, the two new reef-building projects could be termed successful, Demoran stated.

Barring any flooding or other natural catastrophe, Demoran added, the State of Mississippi should be back in the oyster business full swing within a short time.

GCRL developing blue crab management plan

The Gulf Coast Research Laboratory has received a 1-year contract from the Gulf States Marine Fisheries Commission to develop a Gulf States Blue Crab Fishery Management Plan.

The Commission will provide support of $10,100 for the study and the Laboratory $4,000.

Work on the project began October 1.

The principal investigator for the task is Herbert Perry, an associate biologist in the fisheries research and management section.

Perry said that the plan will result from a survey to compile and analyze information on the life history of the blue crab Callinectes sapidus, the recreational and commercial harvest, Gulf states fishery management techniques, and socioeconomic characteristics of the blue crab fishery in the Gulf of Mexico.

The above data will be organized into a document or plan providing for the interjurisdictional management of the resource in the Territorial Seas of the Gulf of Mexico.

A carefully developed and organized management plan for blue crabs in the Gulf does not exist at the present time, Perry said.

He said Perry has developed a plan for the management of such a plan is necessary for the conservation and best use of this renewable resource.

"Because there is no plan, a broad range of management strategies exists for the blue crab fishery in the Gulf of Mexico."

A review of the history, the gear and the historical statistics of the fishery will provide a basis for determining areas where research is needed.

Research needs will then be prioritized so that studies can be directed where the need is greatest.

Perry said that an integral element of the plan will be the development of management strategies that review not only biological considerations of the resource but economic and sociological considerations as well.

A committee will be organized, composed of at least one representative of the marine fisheries conservation agency of each of the five Gulf states, to guide and advise Perry in acquiring and analyzing data for the preparation of the plan.

SALE FEATURED ON ETV—The presence of cattle at livestock auctions in Mississippi is traditional, but tradition was waived at Producer's Livestock Auction Barn in Jackson on Oct. 14 when a new and unique method of selling cattle was used. An auction was held but the cattle were not put to pasture. Instead, they were sold to be used in the Mississippi Educational Television Network, channel 12. Farmweek airs every Monday night 11:30 with the latest farm news, weather and market analysis.

VFW District meet set Sun.

The Theodore S. Price Ladies Auxiliary No. 3263 (to the Veterans of Foreign Wars) will have a gumbo, supper on Saturday, October 24, from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. at the post home on St. John Street. The price will be $2 a plate and children's plates will be $1.

The gumbo will be served with potato salad. Hazel and Roland Wohlschlagel will do the honor of cooking the gumbo. Lucille Boudreau auxiliary president, and Harris Boudreau commander, are co-chairmen.

The district 1 meeting will be held Sunday October 18 at 1 p.m. at the Biloxi post. All members of the post and auxiliary are asked to attend. Sonny Tripplett, district commander, and Patricia Nease, district 1 president, will be in charge of business sessions. Dept. commander, Herbert Barnes will be special guest.

Cool temperatures chase insect pests into house

Cooler temperatures may mean an increase of insects in the home.

Dr. Pat Harris, area pest management specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, says more ground beetles, roaches, crickets and flies will be entering homes as temperatures drop.

They will invade homes through holes in screens, cracks in floors, walls and ceilings, and through any other opening they can find.

They irritate people usually by being a nuisance or frightening them," he says. "They can cause unsanitary conditions, too, which may cause health problems."

One of the best methods of controlling such pests is by prevention. Repair torn screens and cracks in floors, walls and ceilings, he suggests. Most of these pests may be controlled with a fly swatter. By winter, the number of insect invaders will decrease sharply.

Several chemicals have been cleared for household use, including various aerosol sprays in cans.

Knights Notes

In an effort to encourage a larger attendance at its regular meetings, Pere Le Duc Council has moved the time of the meetings held on the first and third Mondays of every month a half hour earlier to 7:30 p.m.

"We realize that many of our members have to get up early in the morning to go to work," says Grand Knight Bob Hubbard, "and the meetings have been running pretty late, so we decided to begin at an earlier time so the men may return home at a more agreeable hour."

Efforts are underway to make the meetings more concise, shorter, and to the point so that we may accomplish more," he added.

Hubbard also encourages the Knights to advise their fellow members of dates of meetings and events in the council.

"When our membership phone committee, headed by Chancellor Mel Estrada, calls and asks if you can participate," says Hubbard, "we hope that you answer in the affirmative and renew your commitment to the Knights of Columbus."

The red beans and rice dinner to be held Oct. 18 as part of the council's celebration of Columbus Day will be an opportunity for Knights to get together for a friendly social evening, reaffirming the fraternity of the council.

Members and their guests are cordially invited to this special dinner, prepared by Estate Builders, on Monday night at 6 p.m.

The council will dispense with its regular meeting in favor of this social event. This Sunday finds the council involved in two special events. In the morning the Knights will once again, with the help of the Knights of Peter Claver, hold its cemetery clean-up at St. Mary's in Third Street.

We strongly urge all those who are physically able to join us at the cemetery to give a couple hours of your time to prepare the cemetery for All Saints Day.

We should all take the responsibility and pride of keeping up the resting place of our loved ones and not leave the duty to someone else.

That afternoon, the Knights will sponsor, along with the Legion of Mary and Our Lady of the Gulf, a Holy Rosary March beginning at 3 p.m. in front of Our Lady of the Gulf Church.

Participants are asked to assemble in front of the church at 2:45 p.m. We ask that Knights and their families attend this ceremony.

The students of the Our Lady of the Gulf CCD program will form and sing a Living Rosary that Sunday morning, assisted in part by Knights Tom Raphael, Bob Hubbard, and Peter Solano, who are all instructors in the program, which begins at 8 a.m. in the OLG playground. Please come see the children in an inspirational presentation.

Last column we forgot to mention Tom Raphael, an instructor of the eighth grade CCD class.

The Council has planned a busy schedule for next week and has only begun to move. Many other activities are planned and the success of the membership is vital.

We hope that you can make time in your personal schedule to attend and participate in your Council meetings.

Junior Rocks lose to d'Arville

By RICHARD F. COOPER
A football team that has been called "the Junior Rocks" lost to the d'Arville "Warriors" 14-12 in a game played at the d'Arville Junior varsity football field on Thursday night.

The Junior Rocks took the early lead in the Thursday night game played at d'Arville when Mark Logan scored on a yard run to give the Rocks a 7-0 lead.

That march started when Logan tackled the Warriors' center on the d'Arville 40 to give the Rocks good field position.

Quarterback Matthew Scardino passed to Chuck Varborough for a gain down to the 25.

A handoff to Logan moved the football yardage down to the Warriors' 10 and then Logan scored on a 10-yard run to give the Rocks a 14-0 lead. St. Stanislaus regained the lead in the third quarter after taking over on downs on their own 41.

Thurman faced all the way to the Warriors' 20 with a pick-off for a 20-yard run. Pass interference was called on d'Arville when Scardino attempted to reach Fred Hines, putting the Rocks on the 11 with a first down.

Logan advanced the ball to the 1 on dash up the middle before Scardino elected to keep the ball and go in for the Touchdown.

A point conversion attempt failed when the Warriors intercepted the ball as the Rocks moved the ball to the 10.

St. Stanislaus' Fred Hines, who scored on a 10-yard run, was the Rocks' only player to be named in the game.

Football contest winners reported

Mark and Melanie Ladner, Dedalus Community, won the first place prize of $10 in the sixth week of The Sea Coast Echo football contest.

Last Week the Ladners finished second.

Kevin Ladner, Bay St. Louis, claimed the $5 second place award.

Five entries in the contest correctly identified 11 of 12 winners in last weekend's football action.

The tiebreaker game of Bay High vs. Long Beach decided the winners.

A total of 28 points was scored in that contest.

Mark and Melanie Ladner guessed 26 while Kevin Ladner predicted 24.

Kris Geroux, Mrs. Sylvan Ladner Jr., and Anna Mae Geoffrey, all of Bay St. Louis, missed only one of the 12 games, but were edged out on the tie-breaker.

Their guesses were 35, 10, and 34 respectively.

CALLING ALL SAVERS: TAX-FREE INTEREST FROM HANCOCK BANK.

Earn up to $2,000 in tax-free interest—with a Hancock Bank All Savers Certificate.

Now, there's a tax break that everybody can enjoy. It's a new way to save—and earn tax-free interest on your savings. It's a Hancock Bank All Savers Certificate.

With a minimum investment of $500, this one-year certificate pays 70% of the yield to maturity on 52-week U.S. Treasury Bills at the latest monthly auction.

The first $1,000 you earn is tax-free. Couples filing jointly can earn up to $2,000 without paying taxes on it.

That lets you keep just as much money as if you were earning a much higher interest rate—one that you had to pay taxes on.

Here's an example:

Effective October 5th, the All Savers Certificate rate is 12.14%. (A new rate will be effective November 2nd.)

For a couple making $25,000 between them, that's the equivalent of a certificate paying 17.10% based on the 1982 tax tables. Because the first $2,000 is tax-free.

All Savers Certificates affect each family differently, depending on your individual tax bracket.

But one thing's for sure. If you pay taxes at all, you're going to reap a higher interest rate with an All Savers Certificate.

In fact, you could do so well that you may want to consider converting your Hancock Bank 6-month Money Market Certificate to an All Savers Certificate. You can do it without penalty.

Find out more about All Savers Certificates at any Hancock Bank office. And you'll find out that tax breaks aren't just for big business any more.

Parental control essential in effect of tv on children

Glenn Feldman, a professor of psychology at the University of Mississippi, says that parents must exercise control over their children's television viewing. He says that television viewing can have a negative effect on children's behavior and that parents must be aware of the content of the programs that their children are watching. Feldman says that parents should limit the amount of time that their children spend watching television and that they should choose programs that are appropriate for their children's age and interests. He says that parents should also talk to their children about the content of the programs that they are watching and that they should encourage their children to think critically about what they are seeing on television.
